

Sightings of Pterodactyl said to be 'routine' in Washington State

Monday, 31 December 2007

Sightings of Pterodactyl said to be 'routine' in Washington State

'Giant flying reptiles, believe it or not, have routinely been sighted in the Olympic National Park's rainforest in Washington State. I've been hearing about reports from there for decades. Now comes an intriguing, if unbelievable, account from the same area.'

Read more ...