

---

Reaction to David Icke's 'Big Brother' By-Election Public Meeting

Tuesday, 08 July 2008

Reaction to David Icke's 'Big Brother' By-Election Public Meeting

Source: <http://thisisull.com>

Moz on Monday July 07th, 2008 02:34 PM

What a superb gig it was. The atmosphere was absolutely electric, and Icke spoke with rivetting passion for truth and justice and freedom. You reading this Mr Davis? You'd learn a hell of a lot if you spoke with Mr Icke for a while.

"David Icke, the man too intelligent and honest to be a politician."

Peace by Peace

mOz

---

Poster: Lewis on Monday July 07th, 2008 07:32PM

Now slowly people are starting to awake from the great slumber. I think that in a short while we will have reached a significant number that CHANGE will come about. I also believe it is of fundamental importance to think in a positive and loving manner always, as every single individual acting in this way has a direct effect on the mass conscious field.

Thanks David Icke for being a stalwart individual in such a universal cause. Strength, Love and Peace.

---

Poster: pete on Monday July 07th, 2008 07:40 PM

first time ive seen david icke speak the man was brilliant the truth resonated never heard anybody talk so much sense well done david, a true leader.

-----

Poster: Canucklehead on Monday July 07th, 2008 08:30 PM

I'm not surprised, he can go for seven hours and still have the full attention of the audience till the end. The man puts out so much empowering energy. Keep it rolling David.

-----

Poster: David on Monday July 07th, 2008 08:52 PM

Haha awesome review!!! And totally true. Icke was telling it like it is.

-----

Poster: Ernst Gruengast on Monday July 07th, 2008 09:36 PM

In this case, non-participation will disappear under the radar, as other major parties are not fielding candidates - VOTE ICKE!! He won't accept a seat in HP, but a big vote will show that more people are awake than the media give credit to and will encourage more to find out more.

-----

Poster: Lindsey, UK on Monday July 07th, 2008 10:00 PM

I've been listening to Icke since his "I Am Me, I Am Free" book came out. Thank goodness he's had the strength to keep speaking the truth all these years!!! And thanks thisisull for your honest coverage.

-----
Poster: steve on Monday July 07th, 2008 10:34 PM

My awakening started about the same time as david ickes, and ive been telling people whats going on since the mid nineties, underground so to speak. ickes awesome, there's a magnetic shift happening you can feel it in your being so hold tight folks. We're the ones we have been waiting for.

-----

Poster: Linda on Monday July 07th, 2008 11:13 PM

David Icke is a brilliant intelligent speaker. He can hold an audience for hours. The Truth will eventually set us all free. David Davis will never do what David Icke can. I hope David Icke gets many many votes. He will always get mine. God Bless David Icke. It's time to WAKE UP SHEEPLE baa baa baa.

-----

Poster: Steve on Tuesday July 08th, 2008 01:09 AM

Awesome. If the people of Hull really do want a better world for their children, then vote for Icke. The repercussions will be devastating for the Elite, and maybe, just maybe the yellow journalists in the big media will have to have him on their shows. The future of our children depends on exposing the puppets like David Davis, he is there to corner all future debate on Big Brother, controlling it's direction. The Irish impacted on the EU with their vote, now it's time for Hull to do the same in this vote.

-----

Poster: SKAWF on Tuesday July 08th, 2008 10:13 AM well they say the ratio has to be one person in every twenty talking about it for something to achieve critical mass - but it has to be sustained as well. good or bad this election is an event thats focusing peoples attention right where it needs to be, and when they actually SEE big brother doing what david icke says big brother does, they shift.

no offence, britain is a big place, and the world is very much bigger, so maybe someone should run in every by election..... the free mind party or something. just ask yourself, how big would his venues have to be, to get the extra support he's got from H&H in and the same from every OTHER constituency as well, maybe, instead of standing, he could organise an event just before every by election to let people know just exactly what they are voting for.

blessings are all very well and good, but occasionally you have to get off your ar*e an do some heavy lifting

-----
Poster: Mike on Tuesday July 08th, 2008 11:43 AM

Thanx for the information that you presented well and accurately.

My eyes are open and so is my mind!

I just hope as a race we can work together to destroy BB at its source.

Keep up the work

Peace & love

Mike

-----

Poster: Steven on Tuesday July 08th, 2008 02:39 PM

I've followed David Icke since first hearing him being interviewed on radio 1 by Nicky Campbell back in 1990. I then rushed out & bought his second book called The Truth Vibrations & zipped through it in a few days, the info just resonated with me. Then heard his 2nd (update) interview with Nicky a year later talking about his 3rd book Love Changes Everything. Incredible but very credible stuff if you know what I mean Keep up the noise for peace David

Another book I've read which I highly recommend & also want so much for David to read is The Final Theory by Mark

McCutcheon. Pleeeeeease ppl check that awesome book out if you truly want to know the actual cause behind Newton's invention called 'Gravity'. Mark's theory is sooo simple & sooo bang on the mark, just like all of David's stuff. Read reviews of it on Amazon. Also a book called The Secret History Of The World by Johnathan Black & all of George Gurdjieff's stuff. Enjoy the reads & ride ppl

-----

Poster: marjorie.pugh@tesco.net on Tuesday July 08th, 2008 03:28 PM

dear david asked bbc 4 times over weekend if we could talk about you on have your say same response as when i asked to talk about lisbon treaty before the irish vote (nothing) not unexpected. see "the peak of world oil production and the road to the olduvai gorge" richard c duncan Ph.D.1 november 13 2000 god bless marge