

Vaccinate Canadians Under 40 and Natives First: Experts

Tuesday, 23 June 2009

Vaccinate Canadians Under 40 and Natives First: Experts

'Five-to-40-year-olds and Canada's aboriginal communities should be the first to get vaccinated against human swine flu, experts say as Canadian officials decide who gets priority for the flu shots. Under Canada's official pandemic plan, the entire population would ultimately be immunized against the H1N1 swine flu.'

Read more...