

Lord reject ID cards third time

Thursday, 16 March 2006

Third Lords rejection of ID cards

'Government plans to force all passport applicants to have an ID card have been defeated in the Lords for a third time. Peers voted by a majority of 35 to overturn the proposal, which was backed by MPs earlier this week. Opposition peers say the plans break the government's promise that ID cards will initially be voluntary.'