Friday, 17 March 2006

Blair's Labour Party was secretly loaned £14m

'Labour was secretly loaned £13,950,000 by wealthy individuals ahead of last year's election, it has confirmed. The figure is more than three times the amount previously thought, and most of it was used in Labour's £18m campaign. Labour says it will name lenders in future amid claims - vehemently denied by ministers - those lending money were being rewarded with peerages.'
