

The Brandon Corey Story and David Icke

Wednesday, 08 November 2006

The Brandon Corey Story and David Icke

From TruthseekerTV ... making some things clear.

From TruthseekerTV ... making some things clear about The Brandon Corey Story

Dear David Icke supporters,

While many of you have written to say how much you appreciate this movie, a few have said they were unhappy with the way we at TruthseekerTV chose to market the film. Some of you feel that our marketing was not genuine, that we represented the film as fact when it was and is FICTION based on fact, and portraying the great and courageous work of David Icke.

David told us over and over that the film had to be promoted as a MOVIE and not documentary fact and we apologize if we didn't make this clear enough in accordance with his wishes. It was not our intention to mislead, but we know that David is far from pleased to say the least that some could be left with the impression that the story was real.

The theme is certainly true, and we have had so many wonderful emails from those who have seen the MOVIE for what it is, an attempt to bring David Icke's work into the mainstream by presenting our movie as a sort of "Blair Witch Project". We see now that this was a mistake.

It is sad, however, to be subjected to abuse and personal attacks for simply trying to let people know, through a movie, what is happening in their world. But David warned us that when you enter this 'conspiracy arena' facing abuse, even from those who claim to be against the conspiracy, is part of daily life.

Again, let us be clear, our only goal is to try and get the wider public and critics of David Icke to watch the movie, to watch subject matter that they normally would never have given attention to. We never intended to hurt David or anyone. In fact, what we wanted is just the opposite and clearly from the response of so many, we are achieving our aim of getting people to look at what David is saying.

For the record, the movie The Brandon Corey Story is fiction based on fact. Our goal was to try and get this seen by the millions of folks who might not otherwise have heard of David or listened to him. We felt that the best way to do this was to market this as real. We realize now that we should have made it completely clear that it was a movie. The good news is that people unaware of David's research are watching this movie and the reviews for the most part have been excellent.

We have gotten many calls requesting interviews from mainstream papers and TV shows, so our goal is working. We would also emphasise that David Icke was not involved in the production of this movie, except to appear as himself and pass on his knowledge to the viewers, but he has always supported our aim of getting this information to a much wider audience worldwide.

We at TruthseekerTV stand for truth. We believe that the best way to disseminate truth that might be hard for some to swallow (the Reptilians for example) is to get information under the radar so the public have the opportunity to choose what to believe. Getting a full-blown documentary out to the public on these deeper - Reptilian - themes is extremely difficult because of the suppression of such information. This is an attempt to get around the problem.

Please accept our apology and thanks for supporting David Icke and The Brandon Corey Story. Together we can make this excellent movie have maximum impact in allowing people to see the world as it really is. And so long as we make it clear it is a movie and not a documentary, David Icke is very supportive of us and what we are trying to achieve.

TruthseekerTV

Click here for details